The General James A. Van Fleet State Trail is one of Florida’s most rural trails. The trail is named after an American veteran who was a distinguished combat commander in World War I, World War II and the Korean War. It runs through the Green Swamp, the headwaters for some of Florida’s most frequently canoed rivers—the Withlacoochee, Hillsborough and Peace. Landscapes include the natural environments associated with the Green Swamp, former citrus lands, cattle ranches and wildlife management areas. The Trail corridor’s history as a railroad dates back to the 1920s and today there remain a few vestiges of its past such as fragments of old trestle wood, mile markers, etc. Historic mile marker 789 is believed to indicate the number of miles to Richmond, Virginia, hub for the railroad line and home to many of the rail workers. With only one curve in its 29.2 miles, visitors can go slowly and view the wildlife or enjoy it at a brisk pace. The trail has excellent wildlife viewing opportunities between Green Pond Road and Bay Lake Road.

Four trailheads located along the trail provide convenient access. An equestrian trail parallels the length of the paved path. Hunting is allowed in the Green Swamp and Richloam wildlife management areas, found on the western side of the northern half of the trail. The trail remains open during hunting seasons, so trail users should display fluorescent orange while using the trail in those areas. General gun season—November to January. Small game season—January to February. Spring turkey season—March to April.
