

Nature & History

Fanning Springs was occupied by aboriginal people for thousands of years. Approximately 14,000 years ago Paleo-Indian people first began to filter into the area. Over the next 2,000 years, the climate warmed and the natives subsisted on the animals, fish, shellfish and wild plants found in the Fanning Springs area. Several aboriginal sites have been found at the park.

Nearby Fort Fanning was built in 1838 during the Second Seminole War. Made of wood and situated in a warm, humid climate, remnants of the actual fort have long since disappeared. Originally called "Fort Palmetto," the fort was renamed to honor Colonel Alexander Campbell Wilder Fanning (1788-1846), who served under General Andrew Jackson in the First Seminole War. He was noted for his outstanding service as a lieutenant for leading a charge in a battle near the Withlacoochee River at the beginning of the Second Seminole War.

Fanning Springs served as the local landing for steamboats carrying products to and from local plantations until railroads crossed the Suwannee River in the early 1900s. The land has been used primarily for recreation since the mid-1900s. It was purchased by the state in 1993. In 1997 the Florida Park Service became the caretaker of this marvelous site.

Fanning Springs is a very popular clear water spring. Located on the east bank of the historic Suwannee River in northern Levy county, this inviting source of cool, clear water has drawn people to it for thousands of years.

Located along the Suwannee River Wilderness Trail, Fanning Springs produces between 40 and 60 million gallons of water daily. Swimming or snorkeling in the spring is refreshing on a hot day. Visitors can enter the park by boat from the Suwannee River or by car. Many visitors enjoy the picnic area, playground, volleyball court or use the park's large open areas for frisbee, football, soccer or for special events. A boardwalk leads from the springs to a gazebo on the river. A 2/3 mile trail goes through a hardwood hammock where white-tailed deer, gray squirrels, red-shouldered hawks, pileated woodpeckers and barred owls may be seen. Manatees sometimes visit the springs during the winter months.

Cabins are available for overnight stays. Each cabin can accommodate up to six people. These two-bedroom, one bathroom cabins have centralized heating and cooling, an electric fireplace (seasonal use), screened-in porch and fully equipped kitchen. One of the cabins is ADA accessible.
